“Treating Patients With Back and Neck Pain During the Pandemic”

Wednesday, May 6th, 2020
Weill Cornell Medical College
Virtual Stream

Roger Härtl, MD, Course Director
Jaspal Rocky Singh, MD, Neel Mehta, MD, Joshua Weaver, MD Course Co-Directors

IDENTIFIED PRACTICE GAPS/EDUCATIONAL NEEDS

This webinar was designed to help health care providers take care of their patients with back and neck pain while they await treatment. The agenda covers the many ways you can help your patients with home therapies, as well as guide you on escalating patients with urgent needs. All patients can be evaluated now — most through video visits, urgent appointments in person. Our door is open, and all patients will be provided with care.

TARGETED AUDIENCE

This course is designed for Specialty Physicians, Interns and Residents, both nationally and international, specializing in Neurology, Neurological Surgery, Anesthesiology, and Rehabilitation Medicine.

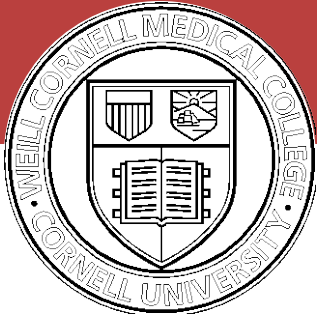

OBJECTIVES/DESIRED OUTCOMES

It is intended that this Weill Cornell CME activity will lead to improved patient care, including improvements in knowledge, competence, or performance. At the conclusion of this activity, participants should be able to:

- a. Advise patients on how the current crisis affects their with back issues
- b. Evaluate your patients who report back and neck pain
- c. Suggest treatments available for pain when your patient can't get to a doctor
- d. Help your patients cope with anxiety and stress during the pandemic
- e. Identify symptoms that indicate the need for urgent or emergent care
